- Starr Behavioral Health specializes in childhood trauma assessment and intervention. Leveraging more than 100 years of building resilience in children and decades of evidence-informed practice, we promote health and fostering healing for children throughout Michigan.
- We assess and treat children, teens and families virtually, in our clinics, in hospitals and in schools with counseling, assessments, play therapy, occupational therapy, and a myriad of evidence informed practices.
- Our strength-based interventions help caregivers understand challenging behaviors and build resilience in all children.

Starr Commonwealth's Behavioral Health Centers provide social, emotional, and educational resources to children and families across Southern Michigan.

With locations in Harper Woods, Detroit, and Calhoun County, Michigan, each center offers direct, community-based treatment and prevention services. Using our strength-based, trauma-informed, and resilience-focused philosophy we provide support, therapy, services and interventions to heal trauma and build resilience.

These services are offered in-person, via telephone, and/or over video:

- Academic support
- Family therapy
- Individual and group therapy
- School-based mental health services
- Occupational therapy
- Trauma assessment and intervention
- Case Management

We lead with courage to create positive experiences so that all children, families, and communities flourish.
