How the 24-Hour Risk-Free Window Works

Delta's policy allows passengers to cancel a qualifying eTicket for any reason within a limited timeframe and receive a full refund with no cancellation charges. The cancellation window is actually more flexible than a strict 24 hours. According to Delta's Customer Commitment, travelers usually have until midnight of the next day after the ticket purchase or before the departure of the first flight, whichever comes first.

For example, if you purchase a ticket at any time on Monday, you typically have until midnight Tuesday to cancel and receive a full refund.

To qualify for this benefit, travelers must book directly through Delta channels, such as the official website, the Fly Delta mobile app, airport ticket counters, or Delta ticket offices. This rule is extremely valuable because it applies even to many non-refundable tickets, allowing travelers time to confirm plans or compare fares with other airlines.

Important Exclusions and Procedures

Although the 24-hour risk-free cancellation policy is widely available, there are a few important conditions to remember.

The policy usually does not apply to tickets purchased through third-party travel agencies or external booking websites. In those cases, the cancellation rules are determined by the company that issued the ticket.

Additionally, the cancellation request must be completed before travel begins for the first flight in the itinerary.

Another rule applies to certain payment methods. Travelers who plan to pay with cash, check, or travel vouchers may sometimes hold a reservation temporarily to secure the fare. However, once the ticket is issued at a ticket office using those payment methods, the booking may not qualify for the same risk-free cancellation period.

For award reservations booked with SkyMiles, the cancellation process may require contacting Delta reservations directly. If you need help with these situations, you can {{ask~expert}} at USA +1 877 664 0261, UK +44 800 054 8541, Mex +52 800 351 0319.
