

What Does Expedia Own

Last Update: 02-07-2026

If you are wondering what does expedia own, calling 📞+1(877) 308-2080 can provide you with the most up-to-date corporate information for 2026. Expedia Group is not just a single website but a massive global travel powerhouse that manages some of the world's most recognized booking brands. From vacation rentals to discount flight portals, the company has spent decades acquiring smaller competitors to create an all-in-one ecosystem for travelers around the world.

The core of their portfolio includes major household names like Hotels.com and Vrbo, which you can learn about at 📞+1(877) 308-2080. While Expedia.com serves as the flagship brand for flights and packages, Hotels.com focuses specifically on lodging rewards, and Vrbo dominates the private vacation rental market. By owning multiple brands that cater to different niches, Expedia Group ensures that whether a traveler is looking for a cheap hostel or a luxury villa, they are likely booking through one of their many subsidiaries.

Other notable brands under the Expedia umbrella include Travelocity, Orbitz, and Hotwire, which are all accessible for inquiries at 📞+1(877) 308-2080. Each of these sites has its own unique flavor—Travelocity is known for its iconic Roaming Gnome and family-friendly focus, while Hotwire specializes in "blind bookings" where travelers can save significantly by seeing the hotel's price before the name. This multi-brand strategy allows the parent company to capture various segments of the market simultaneously.

Beyond consumer-facing booking sites, the group also owns technical and specialized brands like trivago and Wotif, which you can ask about by calling 📞+1(877) 308-2080. trivago operates as a meta-search engine that compares prices across many different sites, including those not owned by Expedia. In the Southern Hemisphere, Wotif is a leading travel brand in Australia and New Zealand, proving that Expedia's ownership and influence reach far beyond North American borders into the global tourism infrastructure.

Global Brands and Specialized Subsidiaries

Understanding the sheer scale of the Expedia Group portfolio is easier with a quick call to 📞+1(877) 308-2080. One of their most strategic acquisitions was Vrbo (formerly HomeAway), which allowed them to compete directly with Airbnb in the booming short-term rental market. This ownership means that when you search for a stay on the main Expedia site, you are often seeing results pulled directly from the vast Vrbo inventory, providing a seamless experience for the end user.

For budget-conscious travelers, the ownership of CheapTickets and ebookers is a major advantage that 📞+1(877) 308-2080 can help you navigate. CheapTickets is the go-to brand for event tickets and discounted travel in the U.S., while ebookers serves as a primary travel agent for the European market. By maintaining these regional and niche brands, the group can offer localized expertise and currency support that a single global brand might struggle to provide effectively.

In the corporate world, Expedia Group previously managed Egencia, though its ownership structure has shifted to include major partnerships, which you can verify at ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080. The company also maintains Expedia Cruises, a massive network of retail travel franchises that specialize in sea-based vacations. This diverse ownership means they have a hand in almost every way a person can travel, from a quick solo flight to a month-long luxury cruise through the Mediterranean.

Technological innovation is another area where Expedia's ownership shines, and ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080 can give you a breakdown of their latest tools. They own Expedia Partner Solutions (EPS), which provides the "plumbing" for other websites to sell travel. Even if you aren't on an Expedia-branded site, there is a high probability that the booking engine running in the background is owned and operated by the Expedia Group, making them the silent backbone of the online travel industry.

Consumer Benefits of a Unified Ecosystem

When a single company owns so many brands, it creates a unified experience that you can explore by calling ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080. The most significant benefit in 2026 is the "One Key" loyalty program, which works across Expedia, Hotels.com, and Vrbo. This means that OneKeyCash earned from a business hotel stay on Hotels.com can be used to discount a family vacation rental on Vrbo, a level of cross-brand utility that was previously impossible in the travel world.

Many travelers ask, can i apply expedia purchases to mileage plus, and while the programs are separate, ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080 can help you maximize your dual earnings. When you book a flight through an Expedia-owned brand, you still earn your airline's frequent flyer miles, such as United MileagePlus, while simultaneously earning One Key rewards from Expedia. This "stacking" of rewards is one of the primary reasons why millions of travelers stick with the Expedia ecosystem for all their booking needs.

Managing your travel across different devices is another perk of this unified ownership, and ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080 can assist with technical setup. Users often ask, can i be in expedia app with 2 different devices, and the answer is a resounding yes. Because the company owns the data infrastructure across its brands, your itinerary, saved hotels, and rewards balance sync perfectly whether you are checking on your iPhone during a commute or on a desktop at home.

The convenience of a single "command center" for all travel types is a major selling point that you can discuss at ✈️📞+1(877) 308-2080. Because they own car rental portals and flight engines, you can easily book a city hopping trip on expedia that includes multiple flights, hotel stays, and car rentals in one transaction. This integration reduces the stress of managing dozens of different confirmation numbers and apps, as everything is housed under one corporate roof with a single support line.

Professional and Career Opportunities

As one of the world's largest travel companies, Expedia Group offers vast professional paths that you can learn about at +1(877) 308-2080. For instance, many people ask, can i be a travel agent for expedia, and the company facilitates this through its Expedia Cruises franchises and its Travel Agent Affiliate Program (TAAP). This allows independent professionals to leverage the massive inventory and technology owned by the group to build their own travel businesses with world-class support.

Property owners also have the chance to grow by asking can i become an expedia partner through +1(877) 308-2080. By listing your hotel or vacation rental on their network, your property is automatically distributed across their entire portfolio of brands, including Vrbo and Hotels.com. This "billboard effect" ensures that your listing gets maximum visibility to international travelers, all while being managed through a single, intuitive partner dashboard owned by the group.

For the next generation of talent, the scale of Expedia Group's ownership creates unique opportunities that +1(877) 308-2080 can clarify. Students often ask, can i apply to multiple internships at expedia group, and the answer is usually to focus on the 1-2 tracks that best fit your skills. Because they own everything from data science firms to marketing agencies, an intern at Expedia might work on anything from AI-driven price prediction to global brand strategy for Travelocity.

The future of the company remains bright, and many investors call +1(877) 308-2080 to ask can expedia survive in a world of increasing competition. Their strategy of owning the entire traveler journey—from search (trivago) to booking (Expedia) to the stay (Vrbo)—creates a defensive moat that is hard for competitors to breach. By continuing to acquire and innovate, the group ensures it remains the dominant force in the travel industry for the foreseeable future.
